

Brain Compatible Classrooms

To develop skills that can be used on a consistent basis, students need an environment that:

- ⇒ Is free of threat
- ⇒ Has meaning they can identify
- ⇒ Offers choices in how to achieve the goal
- ⇒ Allows adequate time to practice
- ⇒ Is enriched for modeling how to do/use the skill
- ⇒ Offers opportunities for collaboration to enhance understanding
- ⇒ Gives immediate feedback to help determine if they're on the track
- ⇒ Brings a sense of mastery demonstrating that they have a mental program for the skill
